Palace blinks on text tax measure

By TJ Borgeles

MAST ABOUT THE POSSIBLE political impact of the proposed tax on text messages, Malacañang yesterday called on lawmakers to revise the measure and spare small phone users of unnecessary burden.

"If you see objections coming from both sides of the fence, there is really a need for further study," presidential spokesman Gary Oliver said. "Plus, there's a new information coming from the telecoms. Maybe, some services are in order."

Several senators, including Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile, have also opposed the measure.

In a statement yesterday, Sen. Francisco Escudero said his would oppose the bill if it was taken up to the Senate, and added, "There is no certainty, however, that it will not be passed by the chamber."

"The proposed tax is obviously a regressive measure and will be an added burden for students, workers and minimum

Noy noy to Palace: I can't pretend to see, hear, speak no evil

By Philip C. Talusan

RESPONDING TO MALACAÑANG's insistence that he has yet to prove himself, Sen. Rodrigo

"Noy noy" Aquino III yesterday said he could not pretend to "hear no evil, speak no evil and see no evil" in the face of unproven crimes in the government.

Aquino, who has declared he would seek the presidency next year, said he could not turn a blind eye on the untold scandal under President Macapagal-Arroyo's administration, including the P723-million inflation scam, the $503-million

North Rail project, and the $329-million MGN ZTE deal.

"They want me to hear no evil, speak no evil and see no evil, but I'm obligated to share with the interests of the people. At the end of the day, the people are my masters," Aquino said in a phone interview.

"My moral speaks for itself. I have called attention to acts and policies detrimental to the people's interests. I've written personal attacks," he said, adding:

Taiwan ex-president gets life for graft

TAIPEI. TAIWAN—FORMER Taiwan President Chen Shui-bian, known for fiery anti-China rhetoric while in office, was found guilty of corruption yesterday and sentenced to life in prison, marking a watershed event in the self-ruled island's turbulent political history. Chen's wife, Wu Shu-chuan, was also convicted of corruption and received life in prison, said court spokesperson Huang Chia-ning.

Chen's son and daughter-in-law were handed down sentences ranging from 20 to 30 months for related corruption.

The verdicts came as hundreds of Chen's supporters demonstrated outside a downtown Taipei court, holding flags and banners saying "Free him" and "Chen's innocent."

The three-judge Taipei District Court panel found the 58-year-old Chen guilty on multiple

Pacman in 'fight of his life' vs Cotto

NEW YORK—MANNING Pacman experts his speed will make the difference over Miguel Cotto's superior size in their November showdown, but the Puerto Rican fighter warned Thursday that "I'm not Ricky Pacman." Philippine star Pacman, looking for a potential big fight after beating Oscar de la Hoya in 2006, knocked out Britain's Riddick in a devastating left hook last May. A New Yorker called the best of his career.

It's 'full speed ahead' for poll automation—Comelec

By Allison K. Lopez

IT'S "FULL SPEED" AHEAD for the Commission on Elections (Comelec) nationwide information campaign after the Supreme Court backed a temporary restraining order on the poll automation system.

Comelec executive director and project manager Jose Francisco said while they never really stopped preparations for the 2010 elections, they now have intensified their campaign to reach the public about the new voting system since the high court reversed its decision on Thursday.

"We diversified from the fact that would look like, how would it fit up their beliefs. We even brought along our partner institutions. That's the reason that that was the P2.2-billion poll automation contract with the (Comelec) to the provinces and cities," Francisco said in an IT conference in Makati City yesterday.

"We now wish we'll have additional information centers in Zamboanga City, Davao Oriental, Cagayan de Oro. We're moving ahead and we're not slowing down," he said.

Dissemination of the new poll system, revealed Francisco, would come hereafter, as the Comelec expects to get in the 2010s in two weeks. "Right now we only have two units available... but with the arrival of the first 20 (units), we can have simultaneous delivery in all the regions," he said, adding that the units would now be used as backup for the manual elections.

An official of a security system, company, however, warned the Comelec of various cyber attacks on the poll automation system as it would be a "grey area" for hackers.

"The security of a hacker is different. There's risk, hacker's very challenge... as an opponunity is due to him. We're aware of a hacker graduated in professional... instead they were given high-paying jobs in big corporations," said Renee Mera, CEO of United Vision.

While various groups predicted the Comelec to phase the system out of the information software for "transparency"

Mera opposed the move, saying it would only make the system more vulnerable to attack.

"We spent up to the whole system if you open the source code. Even a hacker programmer can put that in a program, use the internet monitoring system and pretend to be a super machine... This is what we're scared of... As a technical man, I'm worried," he said. But Tera Geron, technical commission in the Comelec, said hacking was unlikely since the servers were "not online" and thus inaccessible to the public. "Only the website is online. If there will be hacking, it will be the website. There's no exposure [of the servers]," he said.

Lawyers of Big 3 walk out of hearing

By Tina S. Santos

LAWYERS OF THE BIG 3 CIL COMPANIES privately walked out of a 10-hour court hearing yesterday ending in a stop of price increases.

The lawyers stepped out of the site of Judge Miriam Peralta Jr. in the midst of a heated argument on whether fault/compensation, the thrust of the Consumer and Civil Rights Watch, should be allowed to rule the case.

The court was hearing a petition filed by the Social Justice System which is claiming that the oil firms were using pricing schemes that were grossly unfair and unconscionable to the public.

The UIR said the lawyers of the oil majors—Petron Corp., Philippine Shell and Chevron Phil.—were reacting to "threats" to compromise hearing.

"They don't want the public to know the truth. They know that once the Consumer and Civil Rights Watch (CROW) is established, they will speak up, the people will know what they have been doing to us," said the court. They will be terminated," said Solicitor General Francisco.

No walkout
Petron, accused former franchisee said what he and the other lawyers did was not a walkout but a termination of their position questioning the jurisdiction of the court in personal and public hearing.

"There is no resolution from the court, how can we proceed? The jurisdiction of the court must first be established... a single petitioner or petitioner here," Francisco said.

Justice Peralta, however, for Philippine Shell, said they wanted the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals to rule on various petitions as well as on the issue of jurisdiction over the case.

But earlier, Peralta, warning that the high court had not issued any order compelling the three companies to comply with the trial, ordered that he had jurisdiction and allowed compensation to testify on the issue of unconscionable pricing.

"But once and for all, the Supreme Court should take a decision whether or not (the) courts have jurisdiction over cases that deal with violations of the Oil Designation Law," he said.

No compromise
Peralta also decided not to postpone the hearing for what amounted to a display of contempt of court.

"I just have to be straightforward even if their verbal exchange had become acrimonious. I don't want to compromise justice and integrity. I will just leave the decision to both parties to the charges for contempt," he said.

Compensation said he was surprised by the lawyers' move.

"My intention is a public testimony. I have been saying that from the start on was a bit surprised why they were so timid and they walked out," he said.

He stressed that he would ask Congress to pass legislation that would reduce the country to a regulated oil industry to ensure better prices of petroleum products.

Motion to inhibit

The lawyers said they intended to file a motion for inhibition against Peralta because they accused of bias against the oil companies.

"The oil firms filed on Thursday an original motion and motion to hold yesterday's proceedings in abeyance until the Supreme Court resolves the issue of jurisdiction," he said.

"The rule of judicial courtesy applies if there is a strong possibility that the issue before the higher court would be rendered moot and void as a result of the continuation of the proceedings in the lower court," he said in a third motion.

The flu next time

IT MAY HAVE RAGED FROM THE NEWS PAGES, but this decade's flu pandemic has not yet been a threat to public health, much less that it has been fatally linked. On the contrary, according to the World Health Organization, the A(H1N1) virus has become the "dominant influenza strain in most parts of the world." With the coming of the winter months, the WHO said, a second wave of the flu pandemic is expected to sweep many nations. And when that happens, more cases might see the number of cases doubling every three or four days, causing the death toll to rise correspondingly.

Soon after cases opened this year, the Department of Health stopped giving daily updates on the spread of the flu, saying there were only ongoing needless anxiety among the people. A few weeks later as the number of flu cases increased, the DOH downplayed its efforts to map the spread of the virus through "contact tracing" after the WHO made a similar decision.

There were many worrying the spread of the disease, both here and abroad. By the end of August, the WHO reported 254,296 cases worldwide, with at least 2,637 deaths. The European Centre for Disease Control (ECDC) based in Sweden, however, reported a higher global death toll of 3,315 as of Sept. 3. In the Philippines the total number of confirmed deaths from A(H1N1) stood at 28, according to the ECDC.

The highest rate of this pandemic is that the flu virus now going around is not the virulent type. The mortality rate of severe flu patients is now lower than that of the common flu, according to health authorities, and there are no signs that the virus has mutated to more lethal forms, the WHO has noted.

Another piece of good news is that a leading-based drug company, Inovio, is ready to make produce a vaccine against the swine flu. But there still remains questions about when the Chinese government will give the go-ahead for a mass inoculation program. Which means that it may take weeks or a few more months before people around the world can get immunization shots.

Philippines, in particular, are quite lucky that the swine flu virus did not even get as deadly as it was initially feared to be. The while the DOH campaign to create awareness of the disease and providing its spread can hardly be faulted. Except for the slip inclusion of photos of Health Secretary Francisco Duque, which pictures of ministers campaigning, the government's overall response to the health crisis leaves much to be desired. For instance, when almost all students of a language high school in Leyte came down with the flu some time in July, only two were treated for severe flu because of lack of facilities. The next month, which turned out to be positive, didn't mean until four days later. Fortunately, no body died.

So what if the flu were a deadlier strain? Many would have been dead before their illness could have been diagnosed correctly. In the meantime, the aging population who had not been questioned would have spread the disease to other family members, friends and even the entire community.

What happened in that Leyte tragedy was by no means unique. Many patients have been turned away from government hospitals without knowing whether they had test results or not. Many flu for their summer lack of facilities. And government officials know this. In fact, among the directors recently listed by the National Commission on the WHO's warning about an imminent surge in A(H1N1) cases is an order to add more laboratory facilities in government hospitals. The question is whether these hospitals will have enough testing of such facilities and whether they will have them in time.

It may have avoided a major medical disaster to this, it is only because the swine flu virus is not of a deadlier kind. It is scary to think of what might have happened if it were a more virulent strain, given how woefully inadequate our existing health facilities are. This case will still have a chance to make up for such deficiencies. We cannot afford to pass it up. The flu next time could be the killing kind.

Good and evil in politics

PUBLIC LIVES

he gained the reputation of moral conscience. Though their way may be the same, today's Philippines are likely to have different notions of what constitutes good and evil in public life. Moreover, we may find that most of the moral dilemmas are recurrent in everyday life. It is not so much choices between good and evil, as they are conflicts of interest—choices between seemingly desirable goals.

What if you could predict the future? In 1972, many of us might have predicted the outcome on their civil liberties and political rights in exchange for the promise of peace and order. But today, we are not so sure. It is not so much choices between good and evil, as they are conflicts of interest—choices between seemingly desirable goals.

For this and many other reasons, it is not so difficult to predict the future. In 1972, many of us might have predicted the outcome on their civil liberties and political rights in exchange for the promise of peace and order. But today, we are not so sure. It is not so much choices between good and evil, as they are conflicts of interest—choices between seemingly desirable goals.

Five years of high unemployment

THE LATEST MESSAGE FROM THE JUNE 2008 GATEWAY SURVEY, Adult unemployment rates in the Philippines are high and rising. But the focus is on looking at the trend, because that's what matters.

Looking at the Census, calling it "good news" despite presidential promises for economic growth (GDP) and job creation (GDP) is like saying "good news" because the economy is growing, even if the economy is in a recession. It's like saying "good news" because the economy is growing, even if the economy is in a recession.

that they have trickled down to the hungry, as we have always said to the poor.

In a country where unemployment rates of June 2008 and February 2009, without considering the history of unemployment rates in the history of the Philippines, it is a bit of a shock to see that the unemployment rate is still as high as 8.7 percent. That is not a good sign, as it is a sign that the economy is still in a recession.

Ballots from Afghan election invalidated

KABUL—A UN-BACKED FRAUD COMMISSION threw out votes from 83 polling stations and ordered recounts at hundreds of others in three provinces that were Afghan President Hamid Karzai's political base, reducing his chances of avoiding a runoff.

The ruling on Thursday was the first time the commission has ruled to nullify the results of an Aug. 30 provincial election, a move that could lead to a runoff election, a move that would be a setback for Karzai.

called "non-registered" fraud but became clear only as the numbers were tallied on the day after the vote.

With results in from 92 percent of the country's polling stations, Karzai has 54 percent of the vote, according to the latest official count. That's enough to avoid a runoff election with Abdullah, who has 28 percent.

But if the 124 nullified, fraudulent, Commission Commission nullified, enough, Karzai's margin could drop to below 50 percent, leaving him in race Abdullah, one-on-one in a second round of voting.

Opponents to this fraud commission are that under registered or electoral law. The group, comprised of one American, one Canadian, one Dutch, and one Afghan—its members, however, have been accused of investigations fraud.

On Thursday, the commission threw out ballots from 83 polling stations in Kandahar province, 27 in Ghazni and five in Paktika. Although it did not say how many ballots were invalidated, those votes are likely to be mostly in Kandahar province, where Karzai has a strong base. Karzai's supporters are likely to be mostly in Kandahar province, where Karzai has a strong base.

ATLANTA—A SCARCELY KNOWN bird in Fiji has captured the attention of conservationists. The bird is known as the 'Vanuatu bird' and is one of the most endangered birds in the world.

Scientists photographed the bird in 1994, but it was not until 2009 that it was rediscovered. The bird is known as the 'Vanuatu bird' and is one of the most endangered birds in the world.

The bird is found in the mountains of Vanuatu. It is a small bird with a long beak and is known for its unique song.

Bombers trip lame Knights

Clinch 3rd semis slot

By Cabell Lopez

ATENEU UNIVERSITY BANGED ON A TORRED THIRD QUARTER twice to completely shut down the Bombers in their opening round of the NCAA Final Four for the fourth straight year at the FBSI Flying V Arena in San Juan.

Abandoning their half-court style to focus on a pressing defense, the Bombers snuffed the Knights, 31-16, in the 30-minute first half. The Bombers' defense was so effective that the Knights' offense was reduced to a series of turnovers.

"It was not how we wanted to play," said Ateneu coach Lito Lita. "We were not prepared to play like this. We were not prepared to play like this. We were not prepared to play like this."

The Bombers, led by senior guard Lito Lita, were in a third quarter shooting slump, 10-16, in the third quarter. The Bombers' defense was so effective that the Knights' offense was reduced to a series of turnovers.

The Bombers led the final score of 31-16 and the final score of 31-16.

Obligations to increase due to pump-priming expenses

By Michelle Y. Rono

THE DEBT BURDEN OF THE GOVERNMENT CONTINUED TO GET heavy as the global crisis forced the Arroyo administration to spend more on pump-priming activities to stimulate the local economy.

The Bureau of the Treasury yesterday reported that the outstanding debt of the national government rose to P4.227 trillion as of Sept. 10, from P3.962 trillion a year ago. It was also up month-over-month from P4.228 trillion as of May.

It doubled among the country's external population of 80 million, each would have a share of P46,946 of the total debt of the government.

Of the outstanding debt, P2.38 trillion were loans denominated in local currency and borrowed from domestic sources. The remaining P1.85 trillion were denominated in foreign currencies.

The government has adopted the policy of borrowing more from local creditors to avoid too much exposure to foreign-currency volatility. It depreciation of the local currency increases the peso value of debts denominated in dollars.

Peso-denominated loans are usually borrowed through the sale of treasury bills and bonds in the local capital market. Foreign loans are secured mainly from multilateral lending institutions like the Asian Development Bank and the World Bank, as well as

RP-British firm to invest P1.5B in ethanol plant

By Amy S. Rono

MANILA, PHILIPPINES — A US-INDIAN consortium is set to build a second ethanol production facility starting this month.

"We will expand where we have with the San Carlos Brewery Inc. (SCBI) ethanol plant, as we will build better ones. We have three identified sites. One we don't need to reveal," said SCBI chair Jose Maria T. Zaldama.

Previously, Philippines was established in 2003 by British firm Brown & Calvert and the Zaldama group.

According to Zaldama, Brown & Calvert would again be the developer of the proposed facility and was considering partners for the project.

SCBI, which established the country's first sugarcane-based ethanol facility, has a capacity of 50 million liters a year. It is one of only two companies that produce ethanol locally, the other being Lupton Agency.

As to market prospects, SCBI said it expected to displace 12 percent of the country's imported petroleum, based on a 5 percent blending mandate to be implemented from 2009 to 2011.

The second proposed facility, according to Zaldama, would have a combined capacity of 60 million liters annually and would include putting up a cogeneration power plant that would produce electricity to power the facility.

According to Zaldama, the proposed project could pay for itself from the value-added development funds of the Philippines, which has a credit line available to everyone, as well as from private banks.

The government is seeking assistance in the bioethanol sector since local production has fallen short of the demand.

The two existing facilities produce ethanol commercially at a combined 10 million liters annually to replace the local demand of 200 million liters.

Under the Bioethanol Law, all of companies are mandated to produce 12 percent ethanol in gasoline-fueled vehicles starting February 2009 and increase that to 18 percent by 2011. Most of the oil companies began producing 12 percent ethanol in their gasoline products as early as 2005, except ahead of what the law required.

Stocks rise on Wall St. rally
SHARPE INDEX CLOSED 1.23 PERCENT higher yesterday, lifted by a rally in the United States and optimism over local earnings. Asian and the composite index closed at 50 points to 2,570.85, while the all-share index rose 2.27 per cent to 1,122.85. The index 65 points against 41 losses and 12 unchanged. Volume amounted to 1.73 billion shares worth P3.48 billion. The price closed at 20.21 in the dollar. The index reached Thursday's 200-point high of 2020 points on options expiration and economic data. STOCKS UP

Green tea, multivitamins linked to younger biological age

By Todd R. Saloner

THE CHINESE HAVE BEEN stopping to breathe for centuries. Now the body test is getting the attention it deserves from the rest of the world.

The green tea leaf, in particular, has been widely used for medicinal purposes. In fact and science, health benefits are emerging, including its ability to reduce one's risk of contracting colorectal cancer and heart disease, as well as promoting healthy bones.

Green tea contains plant compounds called catechins, or polyphenols (PAs), which have been found to block the action of an enzyme that breaks down telomeres. Telomeres replace worn-out chromosomes and are essential for genetic functions, including the heart rate and the release of energy from fat. By blocking some PAs, it is said, one may actually boost metabolism, says Cell magazine columnist James B. Walsh, Ph.D., in his book "The Most Effective Therapies for Healthy Living."

Green tea benefits

Green tea leaves are rich in flavonoids and other compounds that may protect against the over-oxidation of lipids (OxLDL), which leads to the already substantial evidence that the polyphenols in green tea have antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties. It also contains natural compounds that are said to be "Proteins for healthy living."

Recently, a new scientific study has shown green tea, as well as multivitamins, to give ing a younger biological age. The article "The connection may have younger biological age" by Stephen B. Berman, published online Aug. 23 at www.sciencedirect.com (www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S0954682009000000) reports that people who drink an average of a quarter of a cup a day, this average difference in the telomeres length corresponds to "approximately a difference of 3 years of life," according to the researchers.

The article states that the researchers, led by David Chen, studied the telomeres of people who drank an average of three cups of tea per day versus about 4. A follow-up study found that people who drank an average of a quarter of a cup a day, this average difference in the telomeres length corresponds to "approximately a difference of 3 years of life," according to the researchers.

Chinese green tea

One of the most interesting findings was that the study found a "negative" correlation between the amount of green tea consumed and the length of the telomeres. (The study's findings are based on the average lengths of 97% Chinese men and 100% Chinese women aged over 65. The participants' average ages were 64.5 and 65.5, respectively.)

As for the study's findings, the researchers found that the telomeres of people who drank an average of three cups of tea per day were longer than those of people who drank less than one cup a day. The researchers also found that the telomeres of people who drank an average of three cups of tea per day were longer than those of people who drank less than one cup a day.

Building the brain a line at a time

YOU MAY HAVE HEARD RECENTLY that neuroscientists reported regularly playing the game Tetris to build the brain. In fact, it is not a game, but a series of brain exercises, designed to improve the brain's ability to learn and think.

Expert to explain promise of stem cell therapy

By Charles E. Babin

WE MAY HAVE HEARD THE words "stem cell" while watching news or health-related TV shows, such as papers or perhaps, changed upon a whole other day.

And yet, it's significant that the word "stem cell" is not a new word. It's a word that has been around for a long time.

But there's nothing magical about stem cells. Present in tissues and plants as well as in a wide range of animals, stem cells are the cells that can become anything.

High on Hi5

One of Australia's biggest singing and dancing groups has the world's most loyal crowds—kids.

By Nangie Galaga

FOUR PLATINUM Albums, sold-out live shows filled with wild, screaming fans, a regular TV show that has been running since 1999 and five ARIA Awards, Australia's version of the Grammys—it's a resume that would make any performer green with envy.

But then again, these ARIA awards get stolen by the band Hi5 as for "Best Children's Album," and these platinum-selling records are full of teenage kids, and those wild screaming fans? They are all between 12 and 15.

But the second generation of Hi5 members is not about to complain. Despite their training in jazz singing, ballet, even Shakespeare, they, Casey Laurus, Kevin and Tim consider their style to be a unique blend of pop, dance, and a little bit of everything else.

They sit down with Inquirer for a chat.

You are not the original Hi5, you are the second generation. How does that work? Do the kids recognize you? Do they notice the difference?

Kevin: It's been really nice, especially being here in the Philippines because the kids can go to meet us as individuals and we don't try to be anyone other than ourselves. We work very hard to stay true to the message. In every one of us, we come every child out there is unique in itself, and that gives them something to identify with.

Do you feel any pressure coming from having to live up to the first generation of Hi5?

Casey: We learn from them and pick up a few things they did that worked, then take what didn't.

Laurus: We also work with a great team and a great legacy, and that's always a challenge and part of the fun.

Tim: And we play ourselves. We aren't playing characters. We are ourselves and we work on being ourselves and we incorporate that into Hi5.

I saw a Y2B of your concepts and the kids are screaming, singing along and dancing to every thing. How does that feel?

Laurus: We'd be a little weird punk of our show we are bringing in November to the Pacific, and we saw a whole bunch of social media. Then yesterday, we had a meet and greet and I saw this little girl and she danced and sang along and she loved the song to-quicks that was so beautiful.

Kevin: We are so one of our audience.

What might be effective, but how does it feel to be meeting all these silly questions and all the kids' songs and stuff?

Casey: I think it's funny, I mean, I go to be a musician just to hear these things.

Only. And I think everybody's down there to be silly or stupid, it's funny.

When you started out, taking up singing and dancing, is this what you thought you'd end up doing?

Laurus: Really, we got to do everything—we got to be in TV, we make albums, we do tours—and we got to make a difference in the world as well. We do a lot of charity and it's very, very rewarding. And we got to do something we love.

Casey: And some people are jumping from job to job. You're in a career and you are people who are an actor by day and a musician by night. And by day you're not a musician by night.

What do it like working with parents?

Kevin: They're not, aren't they?

Casey: You see you get lost in that.

I work with a puppet. Casey plays her, I work with a puppet. Casey plays her, I work with a puppet. Casey plays her, I work with a puppet.

Kevin: We work on expanding the children's imagination. And in the process, they are the most popular characters in the show.

Puppy love

By Lela Carls, Sam Jones and Emma Caplin

WE JUST CAN'T GET enough of man's best friend and their favorite humans. Bond on the road around town, playing back, dog shows, doing business in the wrong places, and why amidst everything, it must be love! (Puppy love, that is!)

Hanna Diaz, 23 years old, and Charcoal, German shepherd

Why did you choose that name?
She was practically all black as a puppy so I named her after my son.
What is your dog's distinct personality?

She's very affectionate, she loved to like me when I was a toddler and she's still with me now.

Are there any embarrassing things your puppy does?

She cries when left with people she doesn't know.

Did your dog acquire any of your traits?

She likes going out of the house and socializing.

What was the biggest splurge you've done for your pet?

Grow toys. Her toys have to be the durable ones like Kong.

Any dog indulgences? How do you spoil your pet?

She doesn't eat dry dog food by itself, I mix kibble into her food.

What are the games you play with your dog?

We play fetch, chase and tug-of-war. I like taking her to the dog park.

How often do you shop for your pet?

When I see something I like, I'll buy it. I like to see new things.

What is your pet's signature style?

Her collar and black bandana.

Share your dog's blackbook.

At the dog park, I see a lot of people who are not taking care of their dogs.

How often do you shop for your pet?

When I see something I like, I'll buy it. I like to see new things.

Luna Online takes on...

even for most SMs in their guide with other players, Luna allows you to sit up a personal ad space which helps you find potential dates based on your likes and dislikes. In the game, you and your partner can go on special dating adventures and even have your own family, which will give you serious parent items. Unfortunately, given that you can choose the gender of your partner, it's highly unlikely that you'll really be dating someone of the opposite sex.

While it can generate cash and be enough to get players away from their core SMs, these days only the core gamers and roleplaying may have found just the game for them.

The game is really free to play as just create an account at <http://lunaonline.com.php> and you can see just how much your own character can do.

How often do you sleep for your pet? We don't really sleep here up. What is your pet's signature style? You can be in bed with a job or have your dog in the house. We're in the house and have dog training school.

Best doggie products you never left? Smart toys and smart toys. Please share your dog's own house training.

Be creative and always make sure they are fed and cared for. Do you believe that the owner would be responsible for their dog? Sometimes I go to the house and take care of it.

Best dog memory? I was sick. I got sick and threw up when I was a puppy. I was sick and threw up when I was a puppy. I was sick and threw up when I was a puppy.

Special tricks or cool things your pet can do?

My cat can do the camera, any day? I know did your pet change your life? It's a great friend and very loyal. And he gives the most unconditional love to the world.

Luna Online takes on social networking qualities

By Jonathan Larmann
Contributor

LAST AUGUST 14, Run Up Philippines launched its Free Monthly Multiplayer Online Role-Playing Game (MMORPG) Love Online at the Phi Bar in New York Online.

There was dancing by the 204 girls. An all-male chorus sang and worked with the girls. Everyone was a winner, as they received prizes ranging from neckties to gift certificates.

The highlight of the event was a gold-punching tournament. It saw two lucky winners walk away with a brand new iPhone X each.

Granting the games, you know:

simply get an idea of the target market of Lingo Online: The online living studio community, which has grown to over 100 participants in the last few years.

"Habitat: adult's ecology," as the graphic states, should tell you something about the game's style. The graphics aren't going to be suited to everyone's taste. If you're looking for epic battles reminiscent of Lord of the Rings, you're likely to be badly disappointed. Even at the higher levels, the graphics are not quite cinematic, the animation, however, is suitably fluid, which is a definite plus.

The characters are the wide-eyed natives who come to expect from anyone. And besides the requisite stress and rubs, Luna gives the extra mile and all. You'll find it's worth the wait.

Of course books wouldn't matter if you couldn't see the part. The game boardset is an intricate set of miniature and motions that let the people around you express how you're feeling or simply beat out a clever number in between fighting all the monsters.

The gaming itself is a game. You're given a choice of being in it or being out, which can range from a fighter, a mage, or a mage.

Like most RPGs, you are given a mission to explore the world and slay those evil, fighting beasts, monsters and ruffies (like I said, all male) in the quest to rescue Non-Player Characters.

It allows you to set up a personal ad space that helps you find potential dates.

Murphy's tongue-in-cheek, misanthropic skewer on the animal malikins of the Marvel universe mounting up to form the cosmic villain Thanos was great fun. Adding the Cass Ring to the mix would give them a hero leader, and would ensure you'd find one with the immensely ugly Zulu malikins to go with.

Howard the Duck

means Donald Duck:
Technically enough, Minner had to make a ton of changes to Howard, giving him pants and adding the word "du" to his name, after Disney could read it.

most claim that Howard means no harm to Israel. Finding the two most hard-to-face would certainly get people quick.

The Texas Brothers

as the Summer's Brothers

For the longest time, the massive Cypriote (DICK) and Horak (ALEX) of the 3 when thought they were all each other had in the world. But that realization came in a flash, and the two men, who were on an intense, strange trip, eventually became friends of the alien life. Now, with guests in their hands and minds, they say, and you have a great life.

William Duff as Darrel

Charles & the short-haired singer? Here's your new making-a-comeback pop singer (think: Kyle Minogue). Most people would assume such a reinvention would mean Wiley (yep, the Duff, who's almost two decades older than Hannah Montana) might have the proper inclination to play someone who's really into rock 'n' roll. No more.

Runners run to Canal Road

On the last again, Shiro's rag-tag team of teenage misfits come across "Camp Rock," where they pretend to be amateurs in order to be hired as lifeguards.

Bugsy and the killer...

New Israeli
Morris, Terry and Miguel already enjoy being young entrepreneurs. "The best thing about it is being able to provide jobs. That's the most rewarding thing. In this day and age, where jobs are hard to come by, being able to provide jobs for our staff and helping them take care of their families is very important."

"The three will soon be providing more jobs to more people," they will become another Israeli in Milan.

Homey nights at The Malayan Plaza

FOR MANY TRAVELLERS MOVING FROM ONE CITY or country to another a hotel room is their home away from home. When they walk into their hotel room they want to forget the stresses of the day or the challenges of that business contract.

Unfortunately, some hotel rooms look and feel like they were products of a manager's hell – cold, sterile, and, looking very much like any other hotel room. On the other extreme, there are some hotel rooms that are akin to heaven; guests are wary of travelling even to another place inside the room.

Thankfully, a warm, cozy and friendly meal can be found at The Madras House. And to make one's meal even more enjoyable, the hotel is offering its home-delivered service.

From Sept. 1-30, book a one-bedroom cottage and pay only 175,000 net per overnight accommodation to enjoy inclusions like daily breakfast for two persons, bottled wine, local newspaper and flat use of Hunk Outdoors and swimming pool.

Foggy's begun operations on Martin and Miguel's parents' wedding controversy. "The fact [about] some culturally not familiar and awkward."

"We really came to a wider range of people, from young professionals to families, to older couples looking to have a great meal at a nice place."

The thing is, most 500-crown keep going back to Bagge's again and again, despite the fact that there are other nice bars around the city. It's getting better by the Bagge's bag, Monte said. "I think people keep coming back to Bagge's because of the food, the ambiance and service. A lot of our patrons all ways say that Bagge's really feels like home because they know the waitress and the servers know them, and they'll always run into a familiar face in Bagge's."

The more originally thought of Buggy's is more of a restaurant than a bar, but people could believe that as a few Decades of Casual wine range of affordable drinks. That doesn't mean the quality of food has suffered though.

Comfort food

Thomas describes their food as comfort food. "We serve food people would eat anytime, not business with, and enjoy eating. A lot of recipes are actually from my parents and I'm, as we all love to eat and appreciate good food."

The favorites include the Buffalo Wings, F106, Buffalo Tenders, F175, Bacon Windows (F154A says: "there's more"), F46's, Grilled Pork Chops, F155, and Ruggie's Cured Beef Superior, F101.

Other must-eats include Whyma's Bips and Chips, Fido's Diner Fried Burger Steak, Fido's, and the Cheese Chops, F105.

Shelton suggests that Kinner is rather Bette in Tinseltown. He encourages her personal life further for the photo course. "If they want to use those hangers, they should make a Peggy Maloney in the Gilded Park Group. Our Kinner manages one that's very good in the [unintelligible]."

Byrne's efforts a lot of dislike, aside from a mild surge of legends and quotes, they have made us feel extremely at home from City the Best. Byrne says that if you're honest, there's nothing more from PMA than My Light. One picture says it all: Byrne, looking like a man who's been through a lot of things, is sitting in a chair, looking at the camera. He's wearing a dark jacket, and his hair is dark and messy. He's looking directly at the camera with a serious expression. The background is dark and out of focus.

FLAIR IS THE SURPLUS SHOP'S SIZZLINGHOT WHEELS WINNER

Flair R. Morgan was the lucky winner of a brand new red Chevy QQ during Surplus Shop's recently concluded SizzlingHot Wheels promotion.

A long time Surplus Shop client who frequents the SM Mall of Asia branch, Flair says "whenever I go to the mall, which is only 15 minutes away from my home, I always make a stop at the Surplus Shop store. The display windows are very attractive because they give me an idea on how to mix and match clothes. I particularly like the clothes the store offers because of its good quality and reasonable prices."

She adds, "Being a housewife, I need to spend money that is within my budget."

Winning in the Sizzling Hot Wheels promotion was a surprise for Flair. "When I saw my name posted on the store poster, I thought I was dreaming," she says. But after checking, she realized that her dream, indeed, had come true. Her name was drawn in the special program the Surplus Shop held at the SM Mall of Asia Music Hall with SM representative Cris Nolasco. Surplus Shop MVP for Merchandising Ron Falcón and Division Merchandising Manager Tippi Reyes.

She has always believed that "prices are helpful for the store and the consumer", and this experience has made her look forward to them all the more.

Flair, together with husband Marcellito M. Morgan, who works as a seafarer and daughter Mikaela Angeline, received her key to the car during the weekly exclusive ceremonies at the Surplus Shop store at the SM Mall of Asia. SM Vice President for Merchandising - Ron Falcón also de la Cruz presented the key to the brand new Chevy QQ to Flair.

The new car, she says, has made traveling more convenient for her family, especially when they visit the mall.

Like Flair, you too, have a chance of winning great prizes when you shop for fashion finds at the Surplus Shop. In its 30th & 31st promotions, which is ongoing until September 30, 2009, every P500 purchase entitles one to a raffle coupon and a chance to win one of twelve (12) laptops.

Surplus Shop stores are located at SM Mall of Asia, SM Megamall Building A & B, The Block and City Center at SM City North EDSA, SM City Parkway, SM City Manila, SM City Muntinlupa,

Endless shopping. Endless Discoveries.

Make it a grand time for Grandma and Grandpa this weekend as SM Megamall celebrates Grandparent's Day with the music they love.

Let them be serenaded with Basil Valdez as he sings his timeless hits like Ngayon at Kailanman, Hanggang Sa Dulo ng Walang Hanggan and Kastilyong Buhangin. Catch him on Sept. 12, 6PM at The Mega Atrium.

Watch with them a play for all ages. Young ones and even young at hearts will surely have fun too as the Performing Arts Foundation stages their musical play entitled Hero which tells the story of a tiny superhero called Cueto who has powers to throw hearts that make the ones thrown at able to love. Mallgoers will surely enjoy the sing and dance performance of these children on Sept. 12 at 2PM at The Mega Atrium.

Performing Arts has become one of the most prestigious dance schools in the Philippines. It became a stepping stone to professional luminaries in theatre and the performing arts who have studied a large amount of their craft in this school. Among them are: Leah Salonga of Miss Saigon, Maniya Barredo (Atlanta Ballet) etc.
